Paint Matches

How to buy the colour you like

Below is a list of every colour in Choosing Colours with – in almost every case – a match to a paint colour from some of the most respected paint brands in the UK: names like Fired Earth (who sell my own paint), Zoffany, Coles and Paint Library. Moreover, you can pretty much order them all for direct delivery to your home from this book's sister website, choosingpaint.com, which is working in partnership with Brewers, the largest independent paint merchants in the UK. Click onto www.choosingpaint.com where you can find out more details of the ranges, see up-to-the-minute additions to the paint match list and order colour cards, sample pots and paint. It couldn't be easier.

Notes to the paint match list

All references to Sanderson are to the Sanderson Spectrum paint range unless otherwise stated.

RAL (European) and British Standard (BS) 381C paint colours are technical colours for industrial and engineering use and may not be available for consumer use. British Standard (BS) 4800 colours are British architectural colours and are widely available. Natural Color System (NCS) paint colours are available from many larger paint companies. For convenience sake, Albany are credited here for NCS colours. Please note that all NCS colours listed here are approximations.

Brewers (and Albany Paints) head office address is Albany House, Ashford Road, Eastbourne, East Sussex BN21 3TR, tel +44 (0)1323 411080; fax +44 (0)1323 721435; email decorating@brewers.co.uk; www.brewers.co.uk.

A range of highly researched historic paints covering seventeenth-, eighteenth- and early nineteenth-century colours (on which palette 17 is based), together with swatch cards and other ranges, may be bought from: Papers & Paints Ltd, Paint and Colour Specialists, 4 Park Walk, London SW10 OAD, tel +44 (0)20 7352 8626; fax +44 (0)20 7352 1017; www.colourman.com

Colour accuracy and the limitations of this book

This volume has been printed in Hexachrome®, an advanced printing process that uses six component colours rather than the conventional four. While Hexachrome® offers over 3,000 controllable colours, there are still some limitations and variations within the printing process. As a result it is impossible to guarantee the fidelity of the colours reproduced. The paint matches given below have been matched to all the printed swatches in this book using paint manufacturers' colour cards. However, neither the author nor the publisher can take responsibility for any discrepancies in colour, no matter how large, between a swatch colour in this book and its corresponding specified manufacturers' colour. You are strongly advised to obtain manufacturers' shade cards or buy test pots before making a purchasing decision. In any case, paint from any manufacturer will vary minutely in colour. When buying paint, always check the batch numbers on the tin and buy from the same batch whenever possible. If it is not possible to buy from the same batch, mix the tins to achieve a uniform colour.
